These finger puppets are a perfect way for him to be engaged in the play ...By Tina StageI bought the Masterpuppet Theater for my eight year old son to play with while we listen to Shakespeare. He uses them to act out parts of the action. He is an only child, so he does not have siblings to act out the plays with. These finger puppets are a perfect way for him to be engaged in the play during reading, and after. With the characters included in this set, he can act out most of Shakespeare's works. My son has used card stock to make some additional players. Overall, this set allows the younger set to be involved with Shakespeare's plays in a fun and engaging way.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. "BREAK A FINGER!"By S. P. McCauleyThis came today. What a TERRIFIC little set! Great fun, and a nice playful intro for kids of all ages. And would you believe it comes with a hilarious in-joke: among the 60 impressive puppet character cards, one is of an Elizabethan robot called 2B-R02B. "Seriously." Really nice graphics throughout. And by using the bottom of the box as a stage floor, you can set up the curtain and sets to stage your own great scenes from the play scripts, or to improvise. I'm sure some of your friends will do a chorus kick line for the curtain call. Mine did. They're eight and 55 years old.WHAT IS THIS DAGGER I SEE BEFORE ME! Check it out! You can download lots of extra fun stuff here, including a wooden plank stage floor, props, weapons, horses, and extra foliage:[...]0 of 0 people found the following review helpful.
