Charms and dangles are popular fashion accessories, used to decorate purses, bags mobile phones, and so on. In this book, Sachiyo provides patterns for 20 different designs all in her distinctive, cute and fun style. All the projects are really quick and easy to make each one can be made in just 15 minutes! They are therefore great for passing the time on a journey or when you have a few minutes to spare, and are small enough to carry around in your handbag. They are great for using up scraps of yarn too, and they make ideal little gifts for family, friends and boy or girlfriends. There are ice cream cones, beach huts, strawberries and mushrooms, as well as love hearts, owls, cat and mouse, and stars, to name a few. There are lots of different charms to choose from and you can choose your own colors to make them your own. These charming dangles are great fun to make and cute little gifts to give. Knit one, pop it on a charm strap or even a suction cap to dangle in your car and use!

This is a great little book for those that love to make small novelty items. The book has been well formatted and the pictures are large and clear. The patterns are easy to read and well laid out. One pattern on each page with the picture on the opposite page makes this so easy to use. Fully recommend. * Kim Williams * This fab little book has the most delightful, quick, easy, and adorable little charms. The patterns are so clear to read, and full colour illustrations to guide you through, and to simply ooh and ahh over. There is a cute monkey, beach hut, little socks and bootees...and more - and a great pair of dice which I think would be perfect for the men. It would make a perfect gift for any knitter - without breaking the bank. If you are knitting them for yourself, prepare to be completely addicted. I just can't decide which to start with first - but I am going to knit every one! * Lesley Bambridge * A lovely book full of wonderful little patterns that cater to a wide variety of interests * Em day * I am a big fan of Sachiyo Ishii's previous books, so I was pleased to get a copy of this one. As with all other "Twenty to Make" series, this tends towards to the simpler side of her style, but is just as adorable as her work from 'Mini Knitted Woodland' et al. The instructions are clear and concise, and I particularly like the suggestions for ways to adapt the patterns to suit your own ideas. I have already made a couple of charms, which I have in fact added to my pile of Xmas tree decorations! It's a fab addition of the "Twenty to Make" series, and yet another fab book from Sachiyo Ishii. * Natasha Field * Pictures and layout of instructions are clear and concise. The charms are cute and easy to sew up. I have enjoyed knitting several for presents. I attached the booties and mittens to the fronts of cards. As they only use 4ply they are great for using up oddments of wool. Well worth getting for the older or younger knitter! * Carole Stephens * Another excellent offering from Sachiyo. This is my third one of her books and she still manages to deliver. This is excellent for this time of year for little extra gifts for people. This book would also make a nice gift. * Tracey Stanley * I haven't had chance to try all the designs yet but the ones I have tried have been easy to follow. Good clear pictures throughout the book. Would definitely recommend! * Hayley Hobbs * Well presented. I am hoping to knit some of these patterns myself to use for pencil toppers and it's an ideal book for raising money for charities i.e selling the patterns you knit. * Penny Carver-Irvine * About the Author Sachiyo Ishii was raised in Japan, and is now living in East Grinstead with her husband and two teenage boys. She learned dressmaking and Waldorf doll making while she was living in Japan and she has been designing and making dolls for fourteen years. Her work has appeared in knitting magazines and she makes and sells crafts at fairs and shops where her work is very popular. She teaches a variety of crafts to children and adults including doll making, wet and dry felting, sewing, knitting, crochet, spinning and hand dyeing. Sachiyo has a strong online presence, with her own blog: knitsbysachi.wordpress.com and Facebook page: Knits by Sachi. She sells her patterns on Etsy and Folksy, and also shows some of her work on Ravelry.
