The crafts are creative and incredibly accessible to a mom like me who isn't that creative. And the book itself is beautiful. My kids are enjoying looking at the pictures as well. I already bought the book for two friends as gifts.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Both kids and parents will like!By CustomerThis book is packed with colorful and interesting projects. How could a parent or kid not want to dive into these? The book has easy to follow directions and, what I liked best, pictures exactly what you need in both list form and picture form as well as a reference guide for the craft tools needed and when/how to use them. Very impressive. Great gift for kids and their parents!1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Thomas the Tank Engine. Hot Wheels. Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel. Richard Scarry's Cars and Trucks and Things That Go. Kids' fascination with vehicles is insatiable. In Project Kid: Crafts That Go!, that excitement is translated into more than 60 inventive craft projects for parents to make with and for their children. The book is organized into seven chapters: City, Rails, Sky, Space, Water, Country, and Dirt. There are police cars and ice cream trucks; circus trains and submarines; helicopters, rocket ships, cement mixers, and school buses. And because the car-obsessed kid doesn't just want a new vehicle to play with, he wants a racetrack, his very own driver's license, maybe even a child-sized gas station—each chapter includes not only toys but also thematic clothing, decor, accessories, and more. Projects feature clear instructions and step-by-step photographs wherever they are needed, easy for both kids and non-crafty adults to understand.

Full of toys to make with your kids. Talk about maximum play value! FamilyFun magazine Amanda's purposeful design of each project guarantees that every boy and girl will have success. . . . We of course expected nothing less from a mother of two who has delivered creative content to millions of parents for more than a decade.
